MOVING MEMORY

ALDEN | Population of about 780

Right in the heart of town is the beautiful Alden Dam, and a little way upstream, Alden City Park, which offers fun for the whole family with playground equipment and charcoal grills. Further west down Water Street is Alden River View Campground, which offers breathtaking riverfront views and everything for a perfect camping trip.

Alden Days is a popular summertime event, a fun celebration with a parade, meal, coronation ceremony, live music and more.

BUCKEYE | Population of about 108

Buckeye, the second smallest incorporated community in the county, is located in west central Iowa Hardin County between Radcliffe and Iowa Falls.

First incorporated in 1901, Buckeye became a community when a railroad was built through the area. Buckeye is part of the Alden school district.

RADCLIFFE | Population of about 516

Radcliffe is located the furthest west of any community in Hardin County and sits just 7 miles from Interstate 35 near the Hardin-Hamilton County line. It is believed to be named after the novel "The Heir of the Redclyffe" by Charlotte Mary Yonge.

After its incorporation in the late 1880s, the population of Radcliffe peaked at 708 in 1920. The town celebrates Radcliffe Days annually in July, and some of the local points of interest include the Friendly Fairways golf course, a city park and public library.

HUBBARD | Population of about 761

Located approximately 13 miles southwest of Eldora on Highway 175, Hubbard was incorporated in 1881 and named after Nathaniel M. Hubbard, a railroad attorney.

Hubbard hosts an annual town celebration in June, and has a city park, public library, swimming pool, golf and recreation club, tennis court, the Hubbard prairie and Meier Wildlife Refuge.

Points of interest in the community include the gravesite of President Herbert Hoover's grandfather, the schoolhouse between Hubbard and Radcliffe on Highway 175, the bell at the Lutheran church and much more. It is also one of the only small communities with two water towers.

IOWA FALLS | Population of about 5,122

Known as "The Scenic City," Iowa Falls is a small, but bustling hub of excitement and is located along some of the most beautiful stretches of the Iowa River.

Iowa Falls is a perfect mix of small-town charm mixed with big-city amenities, with outdoor recreation, boutique shopping, and an array of restaurants, bars and a coffee shop.

Some of the town's highlights include the beautiful Main Street district and Ellsworth Community College, home of the Panthers. On campus you'll find a state-of-the-art fitness center as well as the impressive Pat Clark International Art Collection on display at the Carnegie-Ellsworth Building.

Another unique point of interest on the river is the Scenic City Empress, a double-decker pontoon boat that ships passengers off for public weekly cruises from June through October. During Iowa Falls Fourth of July celebration, Riverbend Rally, visitors can experience a magnificent fireworks display from the deck of the Empress, as the boat glides across the water.

Calkins Nature Area, located west of town, boasts a first rate nature center of over 6,000 square feet, where visitors can learn about the history of the area through fun and educational exhibits.

NEW PROVIDENCE

| Population of about 267

Situated in South Central Hardin County, New Providence is known for its Quaker heritage, and the 2020 movie "New Providence," about the final season of a girls' 6-on-6 basketball team.

Two interesting landmarks in New Providence are the Honey Creek Friends Meetinghouse, which has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places since 1980, and the New Providence Roundhouse, which was constructed in 1936 as a Works Progress Administration project.

The Honey Creek Building, constructed in 1916, is made of clay tiles with a brick veneer, and the Honeycreek Preservation group now owns and operates the facility.

ACKLEY | Population of about 1,500

Ackley has a long association with the sweet corn and canning industries, and though that is no longer open, there remains a lot of heritage to be found recalling the rural and small town past. One of the community's biggest bragging points is Prairie Bridges Park, a community-built project, which sits all but on the city limits. The park offers nearly 100 acres for camping, fishing and hiking, as well as three miles of trails, 12 acres of ponds, playground equipment and more.

Sauerkraut Days is also a popular summer festival, which celebrates the German heritage of Ackley residents.

OWASA | Population of about 42

Located approximately halfway between Eldora and Iowa Falls, Owasa is the smallest incorporated community in Hardin County, and is one of the 25 smallest incorporated communities in the entire state of Iowa.

Highway 20 passes through the town, and until the 1960s, Owasa had its own school before a contentious court battle over its closure. Students from Owasa now attend the Eldora-New Providence schools.

UNION | Population of about 380

Nestled in the southwest corner of Hardin County just west of the banks of the Iowa River, Union was laid out in 1868, with settlers from North Carolina incorporating the town in 1874. Its historical roots are still celebrated with the annual Tar Heel Days festival, held each August.

Union's population peaked at 666 residents in 1880, and the community is home to BCLUW Middle School, the South Hardin Recreation Area, a golf course, a clubhouse and a pool. Two county parks, named after Daisy Long and David Bates, are located about a mile east of town along the Iowa River.

Daisy Long Park is the original site of the first water power gristmill, built in 1856, and both parks feature camping, fishing and pristine views of the water.

STEAMBOAT ROCK | Population of about 283

Steamboat Rock is about eight miles north of Eldora and takes its name from a palisade that reminds everyone of a paddle wheeler on the river.

The town's historical society has taken over an old bank building on their main street, gathering and exhibiting a big collection of Steamboat's memorabilia, and maintaining an elaborate website.

The old schoolhouse is another must-see in town.

ELDORA | Population of about 2,650

Eldora is home to the beautiful Hardin County Courthouse and Pine Lake State Park, which is right on the outskirts of town. If you love to bike, fish, canoe, and delve into Native American history – or if you like geology or heritage farming – you've arrived in the right place.

Hobbyists still prospect for gold along the reaches of the Iowa River, not far from Eldora, and it's known to be one of the richest places around for hunting artifacts from pre-history.

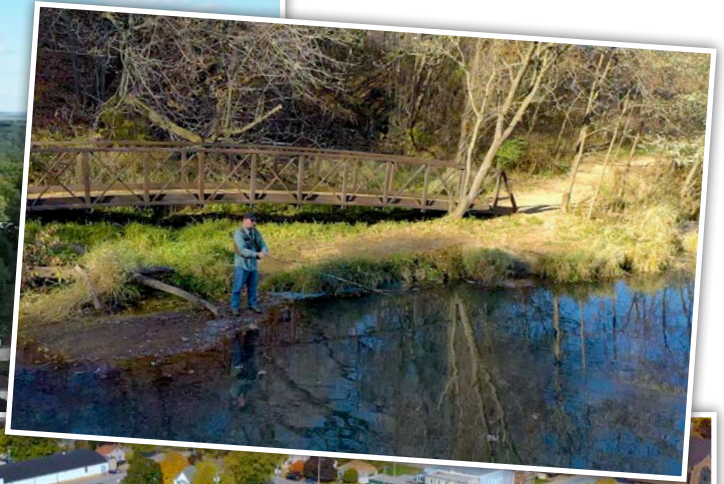

Pine Lake Festival is held annually with music, activities and fun for the whole family. The Hardin County Fair is also held in Eldora each summer in July where students showcase their animals, and cars roar around a track in Figure-8 Races.

The Hardin County Farm Museum is also a regular part of summers in Eldora. The farm site came back to life in the 1990s, and is a window into farming from the early 20th century. A one-room schoolhouse, a country church and a museum which showcases a large collection of vintage farm equipment and tools common in the home and kitchen of those days.

WHITTEN | Population of about 190

Whitten is located four miles northeast of Union along the Hardin-Grundy County line, is the third smallest incorporated community in Hardin County. C.C. Whitten, an official for the Northwestern Railway System, first settled the town in 1880, and it was incorporated in 1882 with 350 residents.

Denise Long, widely considered the greatest 6-on-6 girls' basketball player in Iowa high school history, and the only woman ever to be drafted into the NBA, grew up in Whitten.

Eldora, Iowa 50627

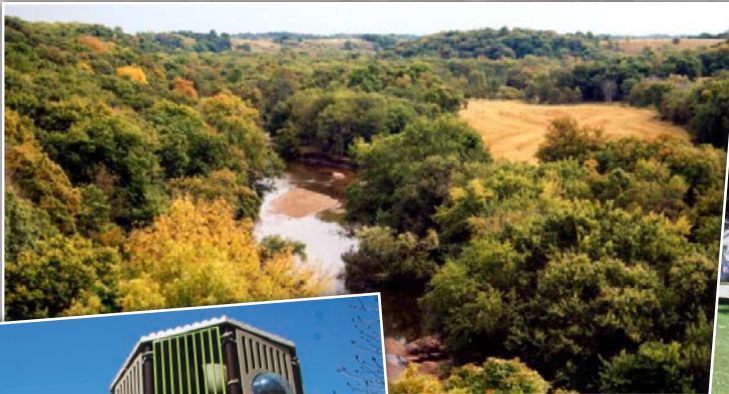

Steamboat Rock is a primary gateway to the Iowa River Greenbelt in central Hardin County.

It is a pleasant little community in the middle of the farm fields of Iowa, but also a gem in the green necklace of the Iowa River.

There is much to do, see and enjoy in and around us...

...new pickle ball court, camping, picnicking, hunting, hiking, recreational trails, Veterans Memorial, shelter house, playground, river access and more!

Steamboat Rock
a place where people want to: Live, Work, & Play.

IOWA RIVER GREENBELT SCENIC DRIVE

The trail starts in Alden and ends in Eldora.

Calling all travelers... come discover what lies beyond the chaos of daily work life with a scenic drive through the Iowa River Greenbelt. Travel along quiet winding roads, and through rolling hills, while viewing beautiful scenery, miles of natural habitats for wildlife, and seas of luscious landscape.

Some are adorned by iron gates; others have beautiful benches and walking paths. All are peaceful and serene. Several lovely cemeteries dot the town and country landscapes of Hardin County, and Pioneer Cemeteries – having fewer than 15 burials in the past 50 years – can be hard, if not impossible to find. Some of the graves in Pioneer Cemeteries date back to the early 1800s, and one of them has a visible gravestone marked Hoover – a distant relative of Herbert Hoover.

Hardin County has a large offering of libraries and museums for those who like to get lost in a good book, or simply study up on the history of how Hardin County came to be.

Formed in 1851, Hardin County was named for Col. John J. Hardin of Illinois, who was killed in the Mexican-American War on March 3, 1845. The beautiful and historic county courthouse, which opened in 1893, sits on the square in Eldora.

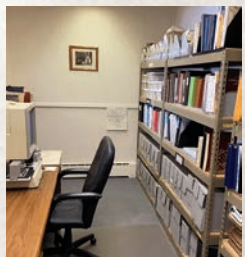

The communities across Hardin County all have sprinklings of original architecture, which date back to the county's beginnings, with local museums like the Ackley Heritage Center, Hardin County Farm Museum, Hardin County Historical Society, the CCC/POW Rec. Hall and Museum, or the Hubbard Historical Society, helping to tell the story.

The libraries in Hardin County stay up to date with their offerings of reading material and welcome visitors to peruse their overflowing shelves. Local librarians are available, helpful and willing to offer information on Hardin County archives.

For those with an interest in museums, architecture and libraries, Hardin County is the place to be!
